Auxiliary News...

The American Legion Auxiliary is the world's largest women's patriotic service organization. Through its nearly 10,500 units located in every state and some foreign countries, the Auxiliary embodies the spirit of America that has prevailed through war and peace. Along with The American Legion, it solidly stands behind America and her ideals

Hello Ladies,

As usual membership is at the forefront of our goals! We just missed hitting 60% by November 11th. Our next goal is 70% by December 20th! At this time we are at 85 out of 132 members paid which brings us to 64%. We only need 8 members to pay their dues to make the 70%. Come on ladies...get those dues in ... RECRUIT, RENEW and REJOIN!

The Auxiliary would like to welcome new member, Patricia Santoni! Please be sure to give her a warm welcome and introduce yourselves to her!

Maxine has mailed out $50,184.31 worth of coupons for October and November. Thank you, Maxine! Keep them coming ladies!

In November we voted to donate $50 to the Senior Citizens Thanksgiving Dinner, $25 to the Auxiliary Emergency Fund and $50 to NEADS.

The Annual Turkey Dinner was on November 21st and from what I hear it was a great success! I, unfortunately was unable to attend. We served approximately 185 people and after expenses we made roughly $1,355 to go toward our local food cupboards. I do want to thank all those who were diligently working in the kitchen all day long to get the fabulous meal out!! It's a lot of work and very tiring. Your help with the dinner is appreciated! greatly HUGE THANK YOU to all those who donated "the fixin's" for the dinner!!

I attended Mission Training in Springfield, MA a couple of weeks ago. I'll have lots of information to pass along at our meeting on December 1st.

Our 29th Annual Craft Fair was a success as well. After all expenses were paid, we raised $639.56 to go toward local High School Scholarships!! WAY TO GO LADIES!! Thank you to all of you that made this happen! Next year is our 30th Annual Craft Fair. Let's start planning now for it to be a super blowout!

As the Holiday Season is upon us, please keep our Veterans and Active Duty in our thoughts and prayers.

Riders Lead The Way!

Reaching Younger Veterans By Craig Roberts

During his year-long tenure, National Commander Clarence E. Hill has repeatedly emphasized his view that social networking is essential to today's work of The American Legion - especially when reaching out to young veterans. That theme was echoed loudly by David Dubois, director of the Department of Defense Transition Assistance Program

(TAP) Operations, as he spoke at The American Legion National Convention this week. In his address to members of the Economic Commission, Dubois outlined his program's extensive and ever-expanding catalog of services to military personnel preparing for re-entry into civilian life, then defined the role of Legion posts in aiding today's returning servicemembers. "The veterans service organizations, particularly at the post level, are the hub of activity within the community. They know the employers, they know the people at the chamber of commerce, they know the community, they know academia," said Dubois, a Legion College graduate. "They could really play a powerful role in being the connection conduit within the community to transitioning servicemembers or those who are returning from deployment (to) the service providers and the leaders within the community. "The hardest part sometimes is creating a network and getting to work within this network to learn who's out there to mentor you, what opportunities are available, (and) how to translate the skills and knowledge (obtained) from military service to meet the needs of the local community." To communicate effectively with the "millennium generation" - of which most of today's servicemembers are a part - one must utilize Twitter, LinkedIn, Facebook and other internet-based interactive media. "Social networking has become the new (communications) tool in this generation of transitioning servicemembers," Dubois said. "When you think about it, today's young war fighter has never known life without a cell phone. Everything is through text, everything is instantaneous, (and) that is the generation serving the country today. So, it would make sense that as we communicate our messages and our services and the assistances available, we need to be in the marketplace where they shop: the social network."

US Naval Sea Cadet Corps - NCB 39 Battalion (

Greetings,

The first two weeks of November were busy. Our drill weekend included fund raising activities as well as the normal routine. Friday evening was typical with berthing being setup and study time. Saturday morning started with an 0600 reveille followed by morning colors and chow. Then it was set up time for the Indoor Yard Sale in the Legion Hall. The sale included raffle tickets for the trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. It was very successful.

After lunch, the cadets practiced their sewing abilities by making bracelets from the tanned pelts from the rabbits processed during our September 2014 SERE school training. We had a Maine fur trapper as a guest instructor for this activity. Saturday evening was filled with study time for any homework and/or correspondence coursework.

Sunday started with an 0600 reveille, morning colors, chow and then class time until lunch. After lunch, there was some class time, taking down berthing, cleaning the facilities and final formation. Cadets were dismissed at 1530.

We had two cadets demonstrate the proper procedure for folding the American Flag at the Veterans event at the Athens Community School on 07 Nov.

On the morning of 11 Nov, the cadets participated in the American Legion's Veterans Day service at the Forrest Hills Cemetery and at the American Legion Hall. At 1400, two of the cadets participated in the formal Legion Flag Retirement Ceremony while others started the fire in the burn pit for disposal of over 500 American Flags.

I, on behalf of the entire battalion, wish to thank the local communities, the entire Legion membership, cadet's families and friends for their untiring support of this unit.

The US Naval Sea Cadet Corps program is open to 11-17 year old males and females. Please visit our website: http://
